Your Email Lead Magnet Checklist

Introduction

So you're setting up your lead-capture system, and one of the things you need to do is create a lead magnet. This is an important piece, because your lead magnet and the follow up emails you send are going to be intricately linked.

So how do you set up this lead magnet? Use this checklist...

Step 1: Choose One Product To Promote

You may be tempted to promote multiple products, but in most cases (unless you're creating something like a gear list or resource list), you're better off focusing on promoting just one product. Generally this is your tripwire product.

Step 2: Decide On The Type Of Lead Magnet You Want

You have a lot of options to choose from, including these 15 ideas:

- Ebook or report.
- Video.
- Audio.
- Gear list or resource list.
- Cheat sheet.
- Mind map.
- Worksheet or workbook.
- Checklist.
- Infographic.
- Spreadsheets.
- Planner or calendar.
- Access to a membership site.
- Access to a private group.
- Access to a live webinar.
- An app or other tool.

Choose the one that best fits the product you intend to promote.

Example 1: If you're selling a debt management guide, then a set of debt management worksheets will be useful in leading prospects to your tripwire product.

Example 2: if you're selling business start-up information, then a set of cheat sheets might be a good bet. That's because you can provide an overview of the process with steps and tips, but prospects need to purchase your product to get in-depth how-to information.

Example 3: if you're selling an app, then offer a "lite" version of this app as a free lead magnet.

TIP: Do some market research to determine what types of products and topics are highly desirable in your niche. If people are buying a certain type of product, then you can bet they'll snap it up if you offer something similar as a free lead magnet.

Step 3: Create Around Your Chosen Product

You want to create your lead magnet around the product you're going to promote with the aim being you promote the product at the end.

Use this mini checklist to create it (keeping in mind not everything will be applicable for each type of lead magnets):

- Choose an attractive, attention-getting name for your lead magnet

Example: "The Seven Secrets For Fast Fat Loss Every Woman Over 40 Ought to Know!"

- Plan how to create something useful yet incomplete, which naturally leads to your paid offer.

For example: -

- Offer an overview of a process in the lead magnet, and point to the paid offer to get the full details.
- Offer tips in the lead magnet, and direct people to the main product to get the in-depth information.
- Be sure you're creating a high-quality magnet You want to make a great impression so people will buy from you.
- Start simultaneously planning your follow-up emails.
Everyone who requests your lead magnet should also get a series of emails which aim to promote the tripwire product. So think about what sorts of additional tips and useful advice you can send to those who already possess the lead magnet.
- Insert at least one strong call to action (CTA) and a link. If it's a big product, like an ebook, you might insert a CTA at the beginning, middle and end. If it's small product, like a cheat sheet, then insert one CTA at the end.
